evening to further the plan of holding a midsummer carnival was not as largely attended as it was hoped it would be, and the results obtained were not all that could have been desired. This was stributable in a large degree to a 2 st gree to a dispute which arose on a question as to whether permanent organization was expedient at this time, before sufficient funds had been subscribed to insure the success of the un-dertaking, the time of the meeting being almost wholly consumed in discussing the point before it was finally de cided to request a committee com-posed of Governor Wells, F. H. Auerbach and T. G. Webber to appoint an executive committee to take charge of the management. Mr. McGarvey, the originator of the idea, and E. W. Sencontributed most largely to the dis-ision. The former not being able to sgree with the ideas advanced by Mr. Senior, who had been invited by the chamber of commerce to be present and give the meeting the benefit of his experience in such affairs, took um brage at his remarks and created con siderable unpleasantness by criticisms of Mr. Senior's position. The gentlemen spoke so often and occupied so much time that nothing was accomplished beyond the action referred to, except the passage of a motion fixing the date of the carnival for July 2, 3 and 4. The most important need, that of in-

George A. Snow called the meeting to order and presided as chairman and J. Wash Young officiated as secretary. Letters were received and read, one from S. V. He offered assurance, however, that it would be very liberal, Another was from J. P. Mcakin, ten-

Mr. McGarvey, for the finance com-mittee, reported that $1,425 had been subscribed as follows: F. H. Auerbach, $500; G. S. Holfes, $100; Don S. Porter, $100; Manca Bros., $50; L. W. Dittman, $100; Lace House, $50; L. W. Dittman, $100; Charles Auer, $75; C. W. Slater, $100; Salt Lake Brewing company, $150, and Councilman Mulvey, $100.

Jake Mortiz of the Salt Lake Brew-ing company moved that the carnival be held July 2, 3 and 4, the motion carrying without discussion.

Mr. McGarvey moved the appointment of a committee of three to report a plan of permanent organization.

A GOOD SUGGESTION. E. W. Senior, who stated that he originated the idea of the Leadville Ice palace, and to whose efforts was probably due as much as to any other man's, the successful consummation of the project, addressed the meeting, speaking to the question. Mr. Greenewald's work so har has been to serve notices on been premises. The orders, he says, must be obseed or arrests will be made, it matters not how prominent the people affected.

MR. M'GARVEY DIDN'T AGREE.

Mr. McGarvey did not agree with the preceding speaker. He had had considerable experience himself and had never heard of an undertaking of the kind trying to do business without effecting permanent organization at the outset. The soliciting committee had met with no rebuffs in the limited time it had been at work, and he did not anticipate meeting the difficulties Mr. Senior had predicted in the event permanent organization was effected.

Chairman Snow was called away ica?

THE CARNIVAL MEETING and W. E. Hubbard assumed the chair, He recognized Mr. McGarvey, who criticized Mr. Sentor for his opposition to every scheme for permanent organization. He said he had makent organization. He said he had heard no opposition from any of the people present who had already subscribed, to the gentlemen named being intrusted with the management. He thought the gentleman's opposition ill-timed inasmuch as his name was not on the subscription list.

mid air before alighting in the network below. Prof. Royal made his famous leap from the St. Louis bridge in August, 1891, on a $5,000 wager with the world known Tom Daly. For a number of years he was the champion shallow water diver of the country. These dives were made from a height of eighty to ninety feet into a tank of four feet of water.

The professor describes the feat as purely a mechanical calculation. He leans forward from the tower and falls, making his evolutions, not by his own movements, but purely by the force of gravitation. The sensations he describes are exhilarating and possessing a strange fascination. Once last September he came near meeting his fate. The wind being against him he lost his footing on the pedestal, and only his quickness of action in catching hold of one of the guy ropes during the fall saved him from being dashed to pieces 100 feet below, but with rare presence of mind he threw himself into position and completed his feat without the audience knowing of his close presence of mind he threw himself into position and completed his feat without the audience knowing of his close call.
